

Special features of print #6...

With constrictions of the human anatomy, the right heel is elevated as knee bends forward, driving the anterior portion of the foot lower than its original position. Thus, the front of the foot records in the secondary print, while the heel is elevated out of the print.

(Photo follows in this section)