

There have been many reports of footprints like this (left) in Dinosaur Valley State Park. The outline of all the main human features can be clearly seen. On the right is the late Mrs. McFall on whose property much of the Baugh excavation has been undertaken. She is holding a cast of a human footprint made by early researchers from models of their own feet enlarged to approximate the reported footprints of the area.