

Precise measurements are made at the time of the original excavation...and are re-measured over time.