

The limestone curing process infilled the great toe of the print.

The "infilled" great toe and "crimped" four toes became a permanent feature of the cured print.

Appendage J.