

The Burdick Print after sectioning across the "flange" area by Loma Linda University scholars. Lamination pressure lines were not as distinct as had been hoped for. Research contained in this dissertation clarifies a plausible explanation for this. Research displayed on the following pages verifies that the print is genuine.