

The next twenty-two pages were furnished as field notes by Ron J. Hastings. Mr. Hastings is not a member of our excavation team. As an interested observer he provided outside verification of the genuineness of the dinosaur footprint excavations. His rough field notes are displayed here because they were made as data relating to the excavations under the direction of this researcher.

Mr. Hastings ran standard calculations relating to the velocity of the dinosaurs making the footprints. These calculations are discussed in the body of this paper.
